The IUP students who take the joint-degree program will gain experience studying at ITS and overseas universities that already have partnerships with the study program at ITS. The graduates of this program will get a bachelor's degree from ITS and the partner universities. Instead, students can take one or more international exposure activities, such as internships in a multinational company, student exchange, short/summer programs, or study excursions. We encourage our IUP students to have the international activities experience for their global insight to complete their program. All costs required for studying abroad are borne by the participants.
