My dream has always been to study abroad, where diverse cultures and ideas would transform my perspective. It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity that excites me. Surabaya and Malaysia share similar weather, but the abundance of bikes used for transportation in Surabaya creates a unique atmosphere. The campus, ITS, reminds me of the captivating TV dramas I used to watch. It's a stunning and immense place. Although I struggle to communicate with the people of Surabaya, I embrace the challenge by learning new words every day, like "pojok" and "handuk."

When it comes to choosing an adventure, I opt for Mt. Bromo. Despite my stamina protesting, I love hiking, and the breathtaking sunrise makes every drop of sweat worth it. I'm still exploring and experiencing new things here, encountering ups and downs in this thrilling roller coaster journey. But I treasure every moment along the way.
