Studying abroad in Southeast Asia was a thrilling adventure that shattered my preconceived notions and ignited my curiosity. The moment I landed in Surabaya, I was greeted with open arms by the Global Engagement department, who guided me through the city's captivating history and landmarks. Surabaya's bustling streets, teeming with motorcycles and vibrant nightlife, left me in awe.

As I stepped into ITS, I was awestruck by its grandeur and modernity. It was a colossal meeting point where students from diverse backgrounds converged, creating an electrifying atmosphere. While adapting to the Indonesian education system posed challenges, I sought guidance from fellow students to navigate through the distinctive teaching methods and collaborative assignments.

However, my most cherished memory at ITS was the Cultural Camp in Malang. This eye-opening journey immersed me in rich traditions and fostered personal growth. We showcased a mesmerizing traditional dance to the village community, engaged in enlightening discussions with our host family, relished the breathtaking landscapes, and rejuvenated ourselves on pristine beaches, far from the city's hustle and bustle.

Overall, my study abroad experience in Southeast Asia was a riveting escapade that shattered stereotypes, ignited my passion for exploration, and left an indelible mark on my heart.
