

Thom Schrama

The Netherlands Exchange Student

*University of Applied Sciences
Amsterdam*

Immerse yourself in the art of designing with nature at this expansive campus. The sheer size will astound you, with its multitude of buildings and offices catering to every need. But that's not all - prepare to be amazed by the vibrant greenery that blankets the entire campus. Not only does it create a visually stunning environment, but it also acts as a natural air conditioner, cooling the temperature and transforming your experience into something truly magical.

As for the city itself, Surabaya is a bustling metropolis that pulsates with energy. It's big, it's chaotic, and yes, it can be a little smelly, but it's a city unlike any other. The streets are teeming with cars, and the air is thick with smog, yet amidst the chaos, there's a hidden beauty waiting to be discovered. It's true that the lack of pavements can make exploration challenging, but the city's secrets are worth the effort.

While classes are primarily conducted in Bahasa Indonesia, this language barrier is just another thrilling obstacle to overcome. Some teachers may feel more comfortable speaking their native tongue, and not all students may have a strong grasp of English. Embrace the challenge and adapt, for it's all part of the exhilarating journey.

And let's not forget the opportunity to venture beyond the campus and explore the wonders of the country. While Bali may have stolen the spotlight thus far, its rich culture and tantalizing cuisine are only a taste of what the entire island of Java has to offer. Get ready to embark on an adventure that will leave you breathless.